It's never too late for a belated Christmas present. How about 1,000 living wage jobs? Send an email to Governor McDonnell and tell him to lift the moratorium on uranium mining: <http://www.liftthemoratorium.com/>.

Props to my fellow pro-uranium Democrat, Virginia Senate Democratic Leader Dick Saslaw! More Democrats need to get behind uranium mining. It's all about living wage jobs, tax revenue to fund our schools and nuclear energy to clean up our environment. Like and share!

FACT: The nuclear industry accounts for only 0.1% of the average American's radiation exposure each year. The vast majority of radiation actually comes from natural sources like bananas, the sun and the earth and from routine medical procedures – NOT from uranium mining or the nuclear industry. People living near a uranium mine are exposed to 7 mrem of radiation each year. Sounds scary right? Not really, when you consider that's less than 1/10th the radiation you get from an abdominal x-ray and less than 1/100th the radiation you get from a CT scan. Uranium mining isn't so scary anymore, now is it? Like and share!

RADIATION | How Does Living Near A Uranium Mine Compare?

Living Right Next to A Uranium Mine 7 mrem / yr	Round Trip Flight NYC to Los Angeles 5 mrem	Dental X-Ray 10 mrem
Annual Exposure from Food & Water 30 mrem	Abdominal X-Ray 100 mrem	CT Scan 1000 mrem

Lowest dose linked to an increased lifetime risk of cancer

Nuclear energy is the cleanest source of baseload electricity known to man. It generates none of the air and water pollution associated with fossil fuels. And, it runs entirely on uranium. Tell Governor McDonnell and Virginia lawmakers to lift the moratorium: <http://www.liftthemoratorium.com/>!
